DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1,2,4,5 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Miller (Re. 21068).

Miller discloses a slot milling cutter, which comprises a cutting head as well as a fastener (20) integrated with the cutting head, which fastener is intended to be received in a tool coupling, the cutting head being provided with at least two insert seats (11), and cutting inserts (12) being mounted in the insert seats; wherein the insert seats are provided with first serrations (16), that the cutting inserts (16) are provided with second serrations which are arranged on at least one main surface of the cutting inserts; the first and second serrations extend in the axial direction of the slot milling cutter, means (20) to adjust the positions of the appurtenant cutting inserts. The inserts are capable of being moved in the axial direction of the slot milling cutter and Miller discloses all of the other subject matter set forth in the claims as broadly presented.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148

USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 3 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Miller (Re. 21068) in view of WO 2004062839.

Miller lacks the disclosure of serrated surfaces on both sides of the main surfaces. WO 2004062839 discloses such an arrangement comprising serrations (40,60). It would have been obvious to a skilled artisan at the time of the invention to provide Miller with serrations on both sides in the manner as taught by WO 2004062839 in order to improve the rigidity of the insert when connected to the cutting head.

Claims 3 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Miller (Re. 21068) in view of David et al.

Miller lacks the disclosure of two opposed toothed edge sides. David et al discloses such an arrangement. It would have been obvious to a skilled artisan to provide Miller with two opposed toothed edges in the manner as taught by David et al. in order to provide an indexing capability to the tool when the edges are worn.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
